

Blackwork Journey Blog

April 2013

Thank You!

April 2013

A very serious accident at the end of March means that there will not be a Blog for April 2013.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the readers from round the world who have contacted me over the last month with their kind thoughts and good wishes.

You have helped to make a very difficult period more bearable, so thank you!

I have taken the opportunity to catch up on my unfinished needlework projects and plan some new designs for the future.

If anything, it has made me realise once again just how valuable having a practical hobby can be. To become absorbed in stitching can take one's mind away from pain and stress and provide an outlet for idle hands. I do not take kindly to spending time in bed, not being able to drive and being dependent on other people for all the things that I usually do myself but I am grateful for the support I have received from my husband and my family and hopefully eighteen months from now I will be able to look back on this as an unpleasant memory!

Happy stitching,

Liz